Fire chief's pay means he's got 'money to burn'

BY KEELEY KNOWLES

editor@lsnmedia.co.uk

TAXPAYERS footed the bill of around £200,000 in pay and perks for a top fire officer last year.

The sum - which can be revealed by Luton on Sunday after examining the latest 2009-10 statement of accounts for Bedfordshire and Luton Combined Fire Authority - includes:

- £139,000 salary (including fees and allowances)

- £32,872 in employers' pension contributions

- Around £27,000 in payments from Warwickshire Fire and Rescue Service for additional duties carried out during a nine month secondment and

- Just £42 in expenses.

The total overall sum paid out to Chief Fire Officer Paul Fuller (pictured) was nearly £50,000 more than the £152,108 he cost the Service the previous year.

We can also reveal Mr Fuller was given a £15,000 pay rise in January 2009, when the recession was officially declared, from £124,000 to £139,000 - an increase of around 12 per cent.

A spokesman for the BLFRS confirmed that an independent pay review conducted in October 2008 recommended this salary.

In comparison to Mr Fuller's salary, the starting wage for a trainee firefighter is just £21,157.

A spokesman for the Fire Brigades' Union said the comparison was a 'scandal'.

They added: "In 2009 the pay of a competent firefighter was £28,199.

"Chief fire officers were earning as much as six times the pay of a regular firefighter, and at least three times as much. And the differential gets bigger every year.

"Chiefs' pay increases twice as fast as firefighters' pay - further widening the gap between those who do the work and those that oversee it."

LoS can also reveal the number of staff on pay brackets between £100,000 and £139,999 has risen to six compared to two the previous year.

The Taxpayers' Alliance has branded the chief's pay hike 'completely out of step with economic reality'.

Matthew Elliott, chief executive of the Alliance, said: "For too long executive pay in the public sector has spiralled out of control - it seems to be one rule for the top brass and another for everyone else.

"Taxpayers want to see their money spent on essential services, not for bosses."

Of the £167,541 paid to Mr Fuller, £27,000 was payment from Warwickshire Fire and Rescue Service for a nine-month secondment he did from February 2009.

A spokesman for BLFRS said: "Chief Fuller was asked by Government CLG to take over Warwickshire in the aftermath of the tragic death of four firefighters.

"He agreed to do so only on the basis that there would be no cost to Bedfordshire and Luton council taxpayers. This was the case.

"For his additional duties, working weekends etc over the nine month period Mr Fuller received approximately £27,000 from Warwickshire."

The spokesman said Mr Fuller has had a pay freeze for the current year 2010-11.

Enraged customer's printer protest earns him a refund

A FIFTY-year-old man donned a cardboard outfit and stood outside a Comet store on Thursday - all because of a faulty printer.

Terry Hillman took the extreme action at the doors of the company's White Lion Retail Park outlet in Dunstable after being refused a refund or replacement for the Epson device he had bought from there.

But his silent two-hour protest (pictured) was all worth it when staff relented and offered him a refund.

Mr Hillman, of Gilderdale, Luton, said:

"I bought an Epson S21 printer at Comet two months ago but it was printing faded black.

"Then on Tuesday it started switching itself off so I went to take it back to the store thinking it would be no problem since it's under warranty.

"I'm unhappy with the service I've received. I'm standing outside the store but not speaking to any of the customers to discourage them from shopping here."

Later that day Mr Hillman was contacted by Comet who offered him a replacement or a refund. He added: "I'm now a happy customer."

A Comet spokesman said: "We were sorry to hear about Mr Hillman's issue with his printer.

"We consider every customer's situation individually and on this occasion, as a goodwill gesture, we agreed to refund Mr Hillman in full without the required inspection."

Hatters clear over crowd trouble

LUTON Town have been cleared of any wrongdoing relating to the crowd unrest that marred their home game against York City.

In an episode which brought shame on the town, Hatters supporters hurled missiles at the opposition footballers who had to take refuge in the stands immediately after the 2-0 semi-final defeat on May 3.

But this week the FA said the club were not at fault for any of the violence that took place.

A Hatters statement said: 'While this announcement vindicates the safety and security operation that was undertaken by the club, prior to and on the day of the game, it does not disguise the fact that the behaviour of a number of supporters on that day was not acceptable in any way.

'As a club we stand by the stance that we took in the days immediately after this game and will ensure that those involved will not be welcome at Kenilworth Road.

"We will continue to support the police in their criminal investigations and will also look to issue additional club bans and/or behaviour contracts for those who we feel it is appropriate.'

Get your bids in for Margaret Moran

A PICTURE of Margaret Moran is up for sale - but this Moran version actually pulls her weight.

Not to be confused with the disgraced former Luton South MP, this is a 35mm slide of 48-tonne tugboat Margaret Moran, available for $4.99 on ebay.

The actual vessel, which has a twin crew and an impressive 3,000 horsepower, was built in 1979 and is based at its home port of Moran Towing of New York, New Jersey, in the USA.

It is owned by Moran Corporation, a 150-year-old leading provider of marine towing and transportation services whose 120-strong fleet serves 16 ports.

As part of its mission statement, Moran Corporation says: 'In the pursuit of our goals, we will be hardworking, honest, efficient, and loyal' - although taxpayers questioned whether these same virtues were carried by ex-MP Ms Moran after she tried to make them pay £22,500 for dry rot treatment to her second home in Southampton - 100 miles from her constituency.

One Luton South constituent said: "At $4.99, the slide might be good value for money - something not provided by Ms Moran who cost us tens of thousands of pounds before bowing out of her political career in ignominy."

If you would like to bid for the 'original 35mm slide of the tugboat Margaret Moran' - from the collection of photographer/author Emory Massman - visit <http://cgi.ebay.com/MARGARET-MORAN-Tugboat-Tug-Boat-Slide-/330459510428>

Road overspend teaches council expensive lesson

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

LESSONS will be learned over the £7.5 million overspend on a project to build a road just one mile long.

That is according to Luton Borough Council which this week admitted contractors Birse battled 'unforeseen technical difficulties' when building the East Luton Corridor (ELC).

The scheme initially had a budget of £16 million and estimated build time of 18 months when construction began in June 2006.

But the project's costs spiralled to more than £23 million, and constant delays eventually saw the road completed three years later in June 2009 - twice as long as was originally planned.

Among the problems was a severe delay after a wet summer.

Jeff Morgan, of Rylands Heath, Stopsley, who commutes to London every day via the ELC, said: "Luton on Sunday and Luton and Dunstable Express have for years been highlighting problems with the scheme and doing countless stories of commuters anguish.

"Thank God somebody has been doing this over the course of the project being built so the public eye has always been scrutinising what turned into a farce.

"It is disgraceful that it was delayed for so long. I am not surprised they overspent by so much."

Birse is also charged with constructing the £89 million Luton Dunstable Busway.

A council spokesman said: "The road has allowed the airport to grow, thereby creating jobs and regenerating Luton's economy.

"Significant and unforeseen technical difficulties encountered by our contractors resulted in the additional costs incurred and the delay.

"However, officers have openly and transparently identified seven lessons to be learned and seven matching recommendations, which are aimed at ensuring similar difficulties can be avoided on future major projects in Luton."

Toddler hit by car

A THREE-YEAR-OLD boy has received serious injuries after being hit by a car at Luton Airport.

The East of England Ambulance Service were alerted to the mid-term car park at the airport at 12.58pm on Wednesday.

The initial report was to a young girl in collision with a bus.

Ambulance crews from Luton and Stopsley attended the scene. An air ambulance was also sent to the spot because of the nature of the call.

Ambulance service spokesman Gary Sanderson said: "The young boy received injuries to both legs and his pelvis.

"Paramedics worked closely alongside a doctor from the helicopter to treat and stabilise him at the roadside before he was conveyed to Luton & Dunstable Hospital by land ambulance."

Brown found guilty of rape and assault

A MAN who has been convicted of raping two women in Luton was only recently out of prison from a six year sentence for another charge of rape.

Prosecutor Isabel Delamere said 44-year-old Cyril Donovan Brown, of Lyndhurst Road, Luton, was violent towards women he formed relationships with, controlled them and raped them when they did not want to have sex with him.

He also had a previous conviction for assaulting another woman who refused to have sex with him.

But Brown claimed in the witness box at Luton Crown Court that he was having affairs with 15 women at the same time and said women would jump on him for sex, often when he had only just met them.

He denied he was violent to them.

After Brown was convicted of eight charges of rape and three of assault on Friday, Judge Barbara Mensah said she was considering passing an indefinite sentence because of the risk he poses to women.

Brown was jailed for six years in 2004 after being convicted at the same court of raping a woman in Hitchin.

Miss Delamere said in December 2008 Brown met a 51-year-old lady in Luton with mental health problems.

She said he moved into her flat uninvited, demanded a key and wanted sex every day even though she said no.

She told an outreach worker what was happening and they went to the police to report him.

He was arrested in March last year and then released on bail.

By July he was seeing another woman who lived in Aylesbury. In September they were no longer together but she arranged to collect some of her belongings from his flat.

The victim managed to make a phone call to her daughter and told her to call the police.

He was arrested on September 11, 2009, and said she had wanted sex and her injuries were nothing to do with him.

Brown will be sentenced in October.

Coordinated raids target drug dealers

THREE police forces joined together on Wednesday to tackle Class A drug dealers across Luton and Dunstable.

The operation was led by Hertfordshire Constabulary and supported by officers from Bedfordshire and Thames Valley Police.

Two men were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to supply Class A drugs following the warrants at six properties in Luton, Dunstable and Milton Keynes.

A man from Milton Keynes was arrested and a second man, aged 33 from Luton, was later released without charge.

As part of the same operation, three men were arrested on August 12 in Luton on suspicion of conspiracy to supply cocaine.

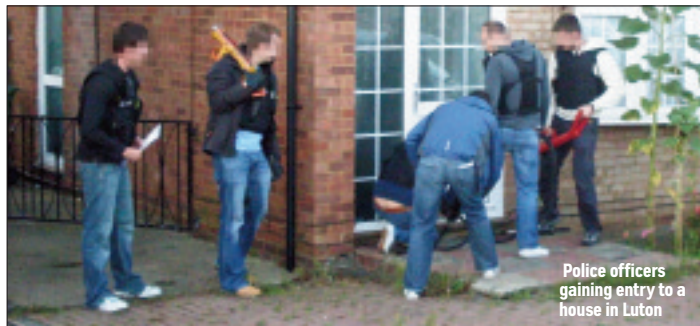

The men were arrested after a vehicle was stopped in Dunstable Road. A large amount of cash and suspected cocaine was seized.

Further evidence of suspected drugs trafficking was seized from addresses in Luton the same day.

Both men arrested in Luton on August 12 have since been charged with conspiracy to supply cocaine and remanded in custody.

They are:
- Dean Jones, 29, of Marsh Road, Luton
- Arron Evripidou, 22, of Lindsey Road, Luton.

The operation is also linked to the Police officers gaining entry to a house in Luton arrests of seven people since May 2010 on suspicion of possession of Class A drugs with intent to supply and the seizure of more than two kilos of cocaine, worth £100,000.

Along with other people from Hertfordshire and Milton Keynes, a man from Luton was arrested.

Christopher Walker, 30, of Croft Road, Luton has been charged and remanded in custody.

Detective Chief Inspector Paul Chinery from the Serious and Organised Crime Unit at Hertfordshire Constabulary said: "This has been a long-running, large-scale investigation into the supply of Class A drugs in Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire, which has resulted in the arrests of 11 people and the seizure of a large amount of drugs, which would otherwise be reaching our communities.

"Throughout the operation, officers have seized more than £27,000 cash and a large quantity of drugs with a street value of over £100,000. We take a robust response to drugs and we actively pursue those who are suspected of being involved in this type of activity.

"All the warrants were supported by officers and PCSOs from Safer Neighbourhood Teams who informed local residents in the areas where they have been executed about why the police activity has occurred."

Two-year temps bill for schools is nearly £8m

EXCLUSIVE

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

MORE than £7.5 million was spent on temporary staff at schools across Luton in two years.

Just over £4 million was paid to third parties between April 2008 and March 2009, £3,222,000 of which was paid for agency supply cover.

The corresponding figures for the following year were £3,600,000 and £2,821,000 respectively.

In total, the schools spent £7,759,000 which, on an average salary of £35,000, equates to 222 permanent full time teachers.

The schools which forked out the most on supply work over both years were Stopsley High School, Chapel Street Nursery School and Children's Centre, William Austin Infant School, Putteridge Junior School, Icknield Primary School and Lady Zia Wernher School.

Putteridge Junior School spent £107,620 and £85,492 in each year, while in 2009/10 Denbigh High School was one of the biggest spenders with £271,187 on agency staff.

The figures were released after a request under the Freedom of Information Act.

A Town Hall spokesman said: "Schools manage their own staffing budgets so Luton Borough Council cannot comment further, though it should be noted that schools employ supply staff for a range of reasons including the coverage of absent teachers.

"Often it is because permanent staff have left and replacements have not yet been appointed and also to ensure children are taught while permanent staff have preparation, planning and assessment time or when staff are undertaking continuing professional development activities."

Facebook site calls for Justice for Nikki

BY LUI STRACCIA

lui.straccia@lutononsunday.co.uk

A FACEBOOK campaign has been set up to raise awareness of the case of a 26-year-old who died of cancer which her GP failed to spot eight times.

Last week Dr Navin Shankar was told by a professional panel to 'carry on practising' despite having ignored former Luton on Sunday saleswoman Nikki Sams' requests for hospital checks between 1999 and 2004.

In August 2006 she was diagnosed with cervical cancer after being transferred from 59-year-old Dr Shankar's practice at Wigmore Lane Health Centre after he was suspended for a separate case of serious misconduct involving a nine-day-old baby. Nikki died 12 months later.

Her father, Mike Sams, of Luton, was devastated by the General Medical Council's (GMC) ruling, which came days before the third anniversary of Nikki's death on August 14.

Mr Sams, 55, said: "The Facebook site 'Justice for Nikki' was created due to the needless death of my daughter Nicola, who passed away on the August 2007, due to the serious misconduct of her GP, Dr Shankar.

"He repeatedly, over many years, missed her cancer, and due to him she passed away in very considerable pain.

"The GMC ruling on the case, is that of only 'conditions' which he has to fulfil, prior to resuming practising. This has fallen seriously short on my view, that he should have been 'struck off'.

"Potentially this doctor could be back in normal practise within 18 months. The purpose is therefore to gain enough support so that a petition can be raised and given to the local MP to see what other options may be open, in pursuit of this doctor.

"I would like to thank anyone who feels able to give their support to this cause."

City status is realistic

SIR - Thanks very much for acknowledging and publishing my comments of city-status for Luton in last week's Luton on Sunday newspaper.

Yes, from my political, economic and cultural-observations, Luton has got the potential to become a city.

If there can be more investment in jobs and job creation, it can ensure that every man and every woman here in Luton, has got a job.

I don't see why Luton cannot become a city and survive as a new English and British city if that status is realised for Luton in 2012.

I don't see why Luton cannot make it as a major ethnically-diverse city here in south east England.

It's all going too far

SIR - Smokers are now being accused of child abuse if they smoke in front of their children.

Where do we stop?

What about parents who like to drink, or teenage girls who get pregnant?

Children who only have one parent suffer in some way.

How do you define abuse? Next, we will all have to take IQ tests. We don't want children being born to thick parents, do we?

Before so-called 'experts' open their mouths, they should stop and think about what they are saying.

John Tucker

Drugs war and the law

SIR - Regarding the drug seizure article and Craig Gurr's request for information on dealers etc, can I suggest instead that Mr Gurr, along with relevant members of Government, watch

Channel 4's 'Our Drugs War' where they will discover how heroin consumption in the West generates huge profits that finance warlords on both sides of the civil war in Afghanistan?

These are potentially corrupting elements of the very government that British soldiers are fighting and dying to protect.

The programme questions whether it is drug laws or demand that causes the problems in the first place.

Perhaps it's time for a long, hard, sensible look at the way drugs are classified (I'm sure the documentary is still available 'On Demand').

PetCheck a success

SIR - Staff from veterinary charity PDSA were delighted to meet so many local pets, and their owners, when our PetCheck vehicle came to Luton last week.

We were visited by dogs of all shapes and sizes, ranging from trim terriers to hefty hounds.

Our veterinary nurse was on hand to give general health checks, which included body shape, dental health and general fitness.

As well as providing PetChecks to dog owners, PDSA provides free veterinary care for the sick and injured pets of people in need, throughout the UK.

To run these vital services we rely entirely on public support and donations, so I would urge all animal loving readers to support our much needed work.

If you missed PDSA's PetCheck visit, you can get free pet health information by logging onto PDSA's website at www.pdsa.org.uk

'Give Lib Dems credit'

SIR - I have not been so angry at any time since I engaged in politics in my twenties. The local and national Labour party has been engaged in lying, telling half-truths and making people fearful of the future.

This in my view is not healthy for a modern democracy, which needs politicians to be honest and trustworthy.

The last Government, Labour, ran up a budget deficit of £164 billion, yes, £164 billion.

This means the public has to pay £8,000 per minute in interest charges to service that debt.

Their policy of doing nothing means that we would pay interest on interest.

The problem with that is that the level of interest payable, would be so high we would lose our AAA credit status, which in turn would mean loaning money which, would be much more expensive, which would lead to the total collapse of our economy.

Given this situation, if the Liberal Democrats had not entered a coalition with the Conservatives to establish a stable government, the markets would have collapsed, leaving the British economy on the floor - and it would have taken decades to recover.

I think this leaves the current Labour Party morally and politically bankrupt, interested only in itself, rather than helping the country get back on its feet.

What the Liberal Democrats have done may not be popular, but they are working in the public interest.

However, savings cannot be avoided, given the current level of national debt, but they must be achieved in a fair and open way.

Only if we pull together will we get the country moving again, for which I hope the Liberal Democrats will get some credit.

Aldi boycotted after parking fine

A EIGHTY-YEAR-OLD who was wrongly fined for using an Aldi car park has vowed never to shop there again.

Pat Sherlock went to the supermarket's branch in Church Street, Dunstable, on July 6 but was fined £70 for a 40-minute stay despite it being free parking for the first hour.

Last week we revealed drivers were being given parking charge notices during the introductory period for the store's new parking system - even though they should have been exempt while shoppers 'got used' to it.

Since we published the case of a complaint against Aldi by Michael Berry, 60, who was eventually given a refund by Aldi, three more customers have contacted us to say they were never refunded.

Mr Sherlock, of Luton Road, Dunstable, has so far refused to pay the fine, claiming Aldi has told him he was in the wrong.

That is despite Aldi's head of PR,

Leslie Swann
with his fine notice

Andy Paul, having apologised to drivers in our newspaper last week. At the time Mr Paul refused to say how many customers had been affected.

Mr Sherlock said: "I haven't paid it. I don't see why I should. I shouldn't have been fined in the first place. I didn't know I had to put my details in to the machine. I'm never going there again."

Leslie Swann, 83, of Russell Close, Kensworth, also visited the store with his wife Rosa on July 5 and was there less than an hour. He actually paid his fine but has never been refunded for the mistake.

He said: "I didn't even know there was a new system. I didn't see any signs. I haven't been offered a refund at all, they just took my money. It's a lot of money and we didn't know what else to do."

A spokesman for Parking Eye, who are responsible for the cameras, said both men's fines had been cancelled and Mr Swann's had been refunded, but at the time of going to press neither had received notification of the cancellation or had the money refunded. An Aldi spokesman refused to say how many people had been affected.

Council's £22k signs not welcomed by all

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

FORTY-FIVE signs costing taxpayers £22,000 – at £500 apiece – have been put up to promote a council.

They were introduced by Central Bedfordshire Council last month, since when they have been popping up on roadsides.

In April 2009, new authority Central Beds was created to replace South Bedfordshire and Mid Beds District Councils, as well as Bedfordshire County Council.

Cllr David McVicar said: "Since becoming a unitary council in April 2009, Central Beds, like other unitaries in the area, has been going through a process of erecting road signs so that residents are aware of who is responsible for the upkeep of the roads.

"We have 45 signs in total and our contractor started putting these up at the entrances of Central Bedfordshire in mid-July and the work is expected to be completed by the end of this month.

"These unique signs were not available like regular traffic signs and the cost, which worked out at £22,000, included all design aspects, production, traffic management and fixing.

"This was extremely good value and I believe that the signs proudly promote Central Bedfordshire and the attractive towns and villages that are in our area."

John O'Connell, Deputy

Research Director at the TaxPayers' Alliance said: "This is a ludicrous sum of money for a few signs.

"Taxpayers are sick and tired of councils spending their hard-earned money on self-promotion and advertising.

"With budgets getting tighter the council needs to get a grip and focus on delivering quality services and providing value-for-money for hard-working families."

County Liberal Party is alive, kicking and seeking new members

THE Bedfordshire Liberal Party was resurrected last Friday – and is calling out for people to join. Peter Burrows, of Saxon Close Dunstable, said politics has 'become a scramble for the centre ground and, in some cases, to the right of British politics'.

He said: "The Liberal Party has councillors across the country and exists to build a liberal society in which every citizen shall possess liberty, property and security and none shall be enslaved by poverty, ignorance or conformity.

"Its chief care is for the rights and opportunities of the individual, and in all spheres it sets freedom first."

Mr Burrows, who used to be a Harrow Liberal Party councillor between 1982 and 1990, added: "The electorate are being fed a (no alternative) cuts agenda by the Conservative/Liberal Democrat coalition, but let's not be fooled – Labour were waiting to implement the same agenda as well. There are many people whose politics are on the radical left who feel disenfranchised from politics by the three main parties and have no affinity with any party and can't identify with them.

"That is why I am restarting the Bedfordshire Liberal Party."

Golden oldies still up for the sound of music

If you were to ask which is the least likely country in Europe to host outdoor music concerts, England would be near the top of the list, just ahead of Iceland.

Yet there is hardly a weekend passes when there is not a concert of some description being performed in the open air, under angry clouds, with joyous fans singing along in the pouring rain. Each year in the UK there are almost 300 music festivals of one kind or another.

And it is not just the young, who tend to be impervious to outside influences when enjoying themselves.

Friends as old and older than me still wend their way to Glastonbury, tying their wispy grey hair into a pony tail, dragging their waistcoats and Che Guevara t-shirts from the back of the wardrobe. The sandals are worn without socks and the iPhone is left at home.

In conditions that would normally prevent them leaving home for Tesco, let alone having a barbecue, they happily sing and groove to new and old music, stoically queuing for toilets and beers, when they would normally complain loudly if they were not served instantly in their local hostelry and sleeping in conditions similar to a WWI trench.

And, of course, the music being performed often recognises the fact that outdoor concerts attract as many over 50s as under 30s.

The star attraction at Glastonbury this year was Stevie Wonder and previous headliners have included The

Who, Rod Stewart, Paul McCartney and Dame Shirley Bassey.

And at Bestfest this year, on the Isle of Wight, the top act is Rolf Harris, which may be post-modern irony, or is that being unkind to Rolf?

The Isle of Wight is where it all started in this country and I went there to see Bob Dylan, among others. What I most remember is a rather attractive young woman climbing into my sleeping bag, while asking if I had a spare ticket for the concert. I said no and she climbed back out again, which proves honesty is not always the best policy.

In those days the concerts were more than just music festivals but an expression of an alternative lifestyle as well as a political statement.

These days they are as mainstream as they can get and it would not be a surprise to see Nick Clegg and David Cameron boogieing in their designer clam pickers.

The young try to prove they are still rebels, especially at Leeds, where they have the habit of burning their tents at the end of the weekend, but, by and large, their heart is not in it.

So you may spot me today at the rhythm festival in Clapham, Bedfordshire, but only if it is not the monsoon weather we have been experiencing of late. If so, I might just reach for the iPod and a good book.

I GOT a bit of stick from some Lib Dems back in May when I said they had little to gain from the ConDem pact and a great deal to lose.

What I said was that if the pact does well it will be the Tories who gain and if it does badly the opposition will benefit. The Lib Dems appear to be on a lose-lose.

This looks like coming true much quicker than even I thought. Polls are showing the Lib Dems at between eight and 15 per cent, well down on their General Election performance.

And this is the 'honeymoon' period for the Government. When the cuts begin to bite and the opposition gets its act together, not a given I accept, the situation could get worse still. This could lead to splits and defections, especially if they lose their traditional strong base in the local government elections next May.

Interesting times for the Lib Dems and they may need help from their Government partners. That is if their partners really care.

The Isle of Wight is where it all started in this country and I went there to see Bob Dylan, among others. What I most remember is a rather attractive young woman climbing into my sleeping bag, while asking if I had a spare ticket for the concert.

I said no and she climbed back out again, which proves honesty is not always the best policy.

Local NHS makes great leap upward

BY LUI STRACCIA

lui.straccia@lutononsunday.co.uk

NHS Luton is among the fastest improving primary care trusts in the country.

Figures show the Trust has moved up 45 places in the national league table to 97th – a huge leap from its previous lowly position of 147th last year.

The rating was based on a range of areas across the board, with particular progress being made with contact with GPs.

The Trust also broke even financially last year – no mean feat considering the hostile economic climate and the NHS's current cash problems.

The good news came in a their strengths and weaknesses. NHS Luton chief executive Angela McNab (pictured left) said: "This report shows that strong commissioning can create real improvements in services, and help give the people of Luton the best possible health."

"Our results show the strength and quality of local NHS commissioners."

"It means that as we work with our primary care partners towards GP consortia taking full responsibility for commissioning, we have an excellent basis on which that transfer can take place."

"It is a great prospect for the future of local health services."

report published this week after all primary care trusts in England were assessed as to

Man pleads guilty to attempted rape

A TWENTY-NINE-YEAR-OLD Luton man tried to rape a woman he met on a drunken New Year's Eve night, a court has heard.

Charles Chuwang, of Chapel Street, Luton, was charged with rape, which he denied.

But on the Wednesday – the day his trial was due to start – his guilty plea to the lesser charge of attempted rape was accepted by the prosecution. Judge Barbara Mensah said: "He is likely to face a lengthy custodial sentence."

Chuwang will be sentenced in October at Luton Crown Court when the full facts will be outlined. He has been remanded in custody.

Simon Thomas, prosecuting, said: "He met the complainant in Luton town centre. They were both drunk and ended up at his flat. He accepts he forced himself upon that young lady and his intention was to have sex with her."

"She is not sure that he penetrated her and on that basis a plea to attempted rape is acceptable. It spares the victim the trauma of giving evidence."

Cops plea after gang attack man and break his ribs

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a gang of 15 attacked a man and broke his ribs and jaw last Sunday.

The victim was set upon by the youths after they allegedly rode bicycles over his wife's car, which was parked outside their home in Sanfoin Road, Luton, at around 9.25pm.

On Thursday Bed-

fordshire Police issued a press release describing some of the attackers in a bid to obtain information which could prove vital in arresting them.

Detective Constable John Wheeler said: "I believe there must be other witnesses who saw this group and I feel sure somebody must have recognised the youths involved. I encourage anyone with information to contact me.

"They will be dealt with in confidence to ensure their identities are safe."

One of the youths, who was seen to be standing on top of the car, is described as a white man aged about 15 and wearing a dark coloured shell-style zip-up top.

Also present in the group was a black man, aged about 16, of large build, about 6' tall and dressed all in white.

Any witnesses, or anybody with information about the offenders, should contact DC Wheeler, in confidence, on 01582 394262, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Media is to blame for fear of crime - report

EXCLUSIVE

BY SOPHIE SCOTT

sophie.scott@lutononsunday.co.uk

IT is mainly the media's fault there is a widespread 'fear of crime' in Luton.

That is according to a report commissioned by Luton Borough Council's Fear of Crime Task and Finish Committee.

They point to statistics over the past few years which show that, in 2008/09, crime fell to 18,972 offences - a reduction of 15 per cent on the previous year's figure of 22,253.

Tomorrow the group will present its findings in a review at a Town Hall meeting in which news reporting will be cited as partly to blame for people being afraid.

The review stated 'the media coverage of violent crime stories is often selective, distorted and manipulated to gain a public reaction that creates a false picture of crime and distrust among the public'.

Councillor
Mike

It also submits evidence from Bedfordshire Police which told the review that 'the media choose negative news stories over good news stories'.

Superintendent Mark Turner, who is based at Luton Police Station in Buxton Road, said in the report: 'The reporting of 'bad' news is good news to the media that sells papers. The media should ensure an equal balance of good and bad news is covered.' Brian McFarland, general manager of The Mall Luton, said in the report: 'Media reports of gangs and young people in hoods also prevent people from coming into the centre.'

Conservative Councillor Mike Garrett, who is chairman of the fear of crime group, said: 'A disappointing fact is that the broadcast media in particular report stories from the Crown Court in Luton and listeners often wrongly assume the crime has happened in our borough, when it hasn't.

"Another issue is that the broadcast media in particular, some of whom are based in Luton, quickly pick up on any bad news stories and syndicate them for national news coverage whereas they don't always do so for good news stories - and we have lots of those."

Warning for girlfriends thinking of hiding guns

A JUDGE has sent out 'a strong message' to the public that 'possession of firearms is taken seriously' by the authorities.

On Thursday, Barbara Mensah jailed Eleanor Hughes at Luton Crown Court for five years after she hid a gun at her house for her ex-boyfriend.

Hughes, 27, of Luton, had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to possession of a firearm after storing a Reck self-loading pistol, a silencer and ammunition along with other goods that included a black and white hooded top.

The court heard at the previous hearing she had been storing the gun and other items for her ex-partner.

Judge Mensah said: "I want to send out a strong message to communities that possession of firearms is taken seriously as they are capable of killing, maiming or intimidation.

"This is a message to any girlfriend looking to do this."

Detective Inspector Richard Wall, for Bedfordshire Police - which issued a press release on Hughes' sentencing - said: "What has happened to Eleanor Hughes should send out a clear message to anybody else who is hiding guns, ammunition and other weapons for people they know - when we catch you, you could and probably will, end up in prison.

"I urge anyone who is already in this position, to tell us before it is too late. And I appeal to those with information about similar situations to pass the details to us.

"This is not just a matter of dropping somebody in it. These weapons kill and those who use them are potential killers. This is actually a matter of saving lives."

If you have information about firearms, knives or any other weapons contact Bedfordshire Police, in confidence, on 01234 841212, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

The survey says... a gap in satisfaction is getting closer

VICTIMS of crime from black or ethnic minority backgrounds are still not as happy with the police as their white counterparts.

While the gap between the two groups' levels of satisfaction with Bedfordshire Police's handling of their cases is closer than it was previously, it still falls short of the target set by the force's chiefs.

The county's policing watchdog, Bedfordshire Police Authority, said it has been 'determined to reduce the gap in satisfaction', which was recorded at 12.5 per cent difference in April 2009.

The latest figures - which show the difference to be 8.1 per cent - show the problem to have been somewhat reduced, but not reached the goal of seven per cent.

Despite this, the authority insists there have been 'significant improvements' in black and minority ethnic (BME) satisfaction rates concerning the way domestic burglary and racist incidents have been handled.

Councillor Martin Pantling (pictured), who sits on the authority, said: "We want to know which initiatives have worked better than others so that we can build on the most effective ways to increase satisfaction for BME victims of crime.

"We believe that, ideally, there should not be any difference in levels of satisfaction between victims of crime from different backgrounds.

"We are pleased to see the figures improving, based on providing services in a way better tailored to individuals, but will continue to scrutinise the work under way to further address the satisfaction gap, which has caused the authority concern for some time."

Fundraising mother

BABY Daniel spent all his short life in either Luton and Dunstable Hospital or Great Ormond Street Hospital in London.

He was diagnosed at birth with Down's Syndrome as well as having three holes in his heart and a bowel defect.

Unfortunately Daniel only lived for 100 days before he passed away in the night.

To celebrate his tragically short life, and to raise money for Down's Heart Group, of which she is director, Mrs Green decided to dye her hair 'Atomic Pink' – for 100 days, naturally.

She explained the reason behind the decision saying: "I used to love my birthday and would always celebrate it. Even when I was in labour with Daniel I took all my birthday cards to the hospital and was opening them between contractions.

"But since then I have found them horrible, so this year was a big deal.

"I found Daniel's 18th really hard, so people suggested I do something for his 21st that would raise money and awareness.

"I said if I raised £1,000 I would dye my hair bright pink and I don't think many people thought I would. But now people have seen that I have gone through with it they are donating and I think so far I have got about £1,700 with Gift Aid.

"Some people in the street give me some very funny looks,

BIRTHDAYS are normally joyous occasions for the all the family – but for Penny Green, every one is a nightmare. Her son, little Daniel, was just 100 days old when, as a Down's Syndrome sufferer, he lost his battle for life on August 3, 1989. On that date earlier this month Mrs Green, of Cantiloupe Close, Eaton Bray, 'celebrated' her 50th birthday on the same day her late son would have turned 21. The heartbroken mother spoke to SOPHIE SCOTT about how the pain of losing him never goes away – and why she's so determined to raise awareness of the condition.

Baby Daniel cradled in his mother's arms during his short life although I have got some of the best responses from children.

"I do look a bit crazy."

Penny spoke of the moment they found out what was wrong with Daniel and the agonising months visiting the hospital.

"When Daniel was born the nurse realised there was something wrong with him straight away.

"Daniel was soon taken to Great Ormond Street where they operated on him and then back to the L&D.

"I would spend every day there, but my other son Andrew was only 15 months old so he still needed me, too.

"We would go to the hospital in the morning and then back home for lunch and back again # will never get over losing baby Daniel

later. Andrew was so good with his brother, he would run to go see him and he knew exactly where he was. When Daniel died Andrew was very low for a couple of days, he must have known what had happened but he was only 18 months old.

"When he did die it was a shock. We had been so worried at first but then it felt like everything was going OK and then one night we just got that phone call.

"The first time he came home was for the funeral. His whole life had been in hospital."

When Daniel was born, Penny (right) and her husband Malcolm, were put in touch with Down's Heart Group who provided her with information and support.

Since then she has volunteered for them and four years ago she was made director of the charity.

Her work has taken her all over the world to educate people about the condition but she explains that most people are still unaware of all the details.

She said: "Because you can do tests these days to find out if your unborn child has Down's Syndrome so many more people are terminating the baby.

"I think it is about 90-95 per cent termination after detection.

"People aren't given the right support when they find out, they aren't given contact details for organisations that will be able to give them real advice and I think it is a real shame.

"Some of the most interesting and amazing people I know have Down's Syndrome and have done such great things."

Penny has found a unique way to remember her son and there is no doubt he would be proud of his mother.

Taxpayers pick up £300k fly-tipping tab

EXCLUSIVE

BY CHRISTINA JOHNSON
christina.johnson@lutononsunday.co.uk

NEARLY £300,000 of taxpayers' money has been spent on dealing with fly-tippers in Luton.

Last year more than 560 tonnes of waste was collected from fly tips within Luton Borough Council's boundary – equating to 4,491 individual fly-tips, or an average of 12 acts of fly-tipping per day.

This does not include private land but just waste which has been dumped in public areas.

The cost for removing all last year's tips was a staggering £212,541, with a further £83,000 forked out for fly-tipping related enforcement activity as almost 1,000 investigations were launched.

This amount does not include staff or overhead costs.

One way fly-tippers are being targeted is through covert cameras on the outskirts of the town.

There were 168 instances of garbage being dumped in the last three months, with the worst offences being in the areas around Stopsley and Cockernhoe.

The problems have got so bad North Hertfordshire District Council has enlisted the help of CCTV at certain sites to crack down on offenders.

A Luton Borough Council spokeswoman said: "Luton's fly-tipped waste often raises serious health and safety risks to the general public itself whether by the presence of unstable piles of furniture or the inclusion of hazardous items such as asbestos and gas cylinders."

Many people are unaware it is in fact the homeowner who has a duty of care to ensure anyone they employ to do such work has a waste carrier's licence.

Fly-tipping could be traced back to them if they fail to do so, and offenders can be fined up to £50,000 or receive a prison sentence for up to five years.

You can check whether a company is licensed to carry waste by searching the public register on the Environment Agency website at www.environment-agency.gov.uk

Hammer attack man gets community order

BY JULIA SUTTON
editor@LSNmedia.co.uk

A MAN who struck his victim on the head with a hammer told the police it was 'like hitting an egg'.

Vincent Adams, 47, of Wingfield Street, Luton, attacked Rafaqat Dad near his home in the early hours of the morning for no reason.

Adams was arguing with a woman in the street outside his home when Mr Dad walked by, Luton Crown Court heard on Thursday.

He then approached Mr Dad and said: "Hit me first, I will show you," said prosecutor Sarah Porter.

She said Mr Dad tried to gesture Adams away, but he swung the hammer and hit him on the side of the head, causing a centimetre gash. One witness heard him shout: "I am going to kill you."

Adams then produced a kitchen knife and Mr Dad quickly left the scene. He was treated in hospital.

Adams was arrested and said: "The ***** man deserved it. It was like hitting an egg. There was blood everywhere."

The police had Adams sectioned under the Mental Health Act. He was released from hospital on January 19 this year, having been treated since his arrest on August 5.

In an earlier confrontation, on April 13 last year, Adams was seen waving a Samurai sword in Portland Road, Luton at 9pm. He was shouting: "I will kill all of you lot," said the prosecutor.

A police armed response vehicle was called and Adams was confronted, holding the sword behind his back. He refused to put the sword down and was 'tasered' by a police stun gun.

His home was searched and a machete found under the shower cubicle along with 0.6 grams of cannabis.

Adams pleaded guilty to wounding on August 5 last year and possessing a bladed article and possession of cannabis on April 13 last year.

David Noble, defending, said Adams had been stable since taking his medication.

Recorder Tim Clark passed a two year community order with two years' supervision. He must abide by an electronic curfew between 8pm and 6.45am.

The judge ordered the destruction of the machete and the cannabis.

Acid spill contained by firefighters' quick action

GALLONS of hydrochloric acid leaked onto the grounds of a vehicle firm in Luton on Tuesday.

Between four and ten gallons were spilled from the boiler house and firefighters were called around 3.30pm to IBC Vehicles on Kimpton Road.

Two firefighters in chemical and airtight suits went into the building and were able to stem the leak and police and the Environment Agency were alerted.

IBC will now conduct a site clean-up operation using its own specialist staff.

A Bedfordshire and Luton Fire Service spokesman said: "The acid was in a tank which was protected by a wall to prevent any spread of spillage."

"The incident was dealt with swiftly and professionally by the teams on site."

Victim is left seriously injured after motiveless gang attack in alleyway

A MAN was left with serious injuries after he was attacked by a group in an alleyway in Luton.

The 45-year-old was taken to Luton and Dunstable Hospital on Tuesday where he is now receiving treatment for head and chest injuries.

These are not thought to be life-threatening. At the time of the incident, it is believed a green car, possibly a Vauxhall, stopped close to where the man was standing.

An unknown number of males are then thought to have carried out the attack.

They are all described as being of Asian appearance.

Detective Constable Rosheen Lenihan said: "This was a particularly nasty attack on this man with no apparent motive."

"We know there were other people in the area at the time and feel sure some of them would have seen the attack."

Anyone with information of the incident, which took place at around 7pm, should contact DC Lenihan, in confidence, on 01582 394341, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Whipsnade cheetah litter make history

A LITTER of one-month-old cheetah cubs are the first to be born in the UK.

The three males and two females have been named by staff at Whipsnade Zoo as Itjane, Sanne, Tlata, Rabaa and Khamssa, which translates as numbers one, two, three, four and five in the North African language of Berber.

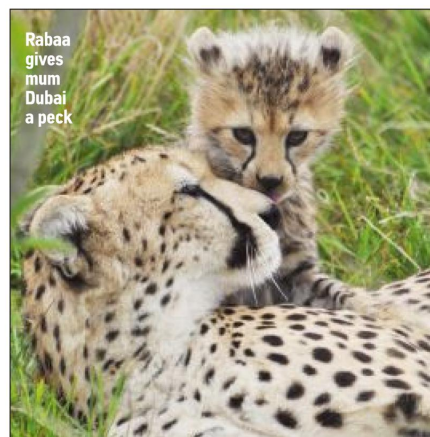

This is spoken in Algeria where the critically endangered species originates.

Born to first time mum Dubai, the cubs are doing well and were moved into their public home in the zoo's cheetah rock enclosure last week.

The cubs are a great cause for great celebration for the zoo and the European Endangered Species Breeding Programme, as it is estimated that there are less than 250 individuals of this species remaining in the wild.

The Zoological Society of London (ZSL), which runs the zoo, works in Algeria to help protect the cheetahs in the wild.

Conservationists from ZSL were the first to record camera-trap images of the elusive species in 2009.

Judge calls time on sympathy for serial-offending drug addict...

A BURGLAR and thief blew the 'chance after chance' he was given by courts to conquer his drug addiction.

Wayne Carass, of Clydesdale Road, Luton, had accepted that he would no longer get any sympathy from a judge after being granted bail four times during a string of offending.

Judge Jeffrey Burke QC said he could understand why magistrates and a judge had thought it worthwhile giving him the opportunity to beat his heroin addiction.

But he said: "You have been given chance after chance and blew it. 'To your credit you are not asking me to give you another chance today.'"

Carass, 31, was jailed at Luton Crown Court on Wednesday for two- and-a-half years after pleading guilty to one domestic burglary, four commercial burglaries and three thefts committed between January and June.

Mr Satya Chotalia, defending, said: "He is under no illusion that he is going to receive any sympathy from the court today."

"He now feels that the only way he will get free of drugs is while in custody."

Several useful tips if you have to do the gardening . . .

GARDENING is Britain's most popular outdoor activity, but more than 500,000 people require outpatient treatment annually for garden-related injuries.

In these warm summer months we find ourselves drawn into the garden, for relaxation, play, fresh air, and the inevitable physical work that makes it all possible.

But a trip to the Accident & Emergency department of your local hospital can be avoided, and the following suggestions might help:

■ Think about what you are wearing and dress appropriately for the activity you are undertaking – wear long trousers, close fitting clothes and sturdy shoes with non-slip soles. Also remember the all-important eye protection, heavy gloves and ear defenders.

■ Before you start up machinery, such as your lawnmower, be careful to remove hazardous objects like sticks, stones or glass from the immediate area.

■ Small feet can easily slip under a mower deck, so you should never allow young children to operate any garden machinery, even if supervised. When mowing the lawn, it is best to assume they will be attracted to what you are doing and run towards you without warning.

■ Ensure your extension cords are in good condition, rated for outdoor use and have the proper current rating for the load. For added protection against electrocution, use an earthing fault circuit breaker.

■ Never operate electric power tools in wet or damp conditions, and always allow petrol-powered machines to cool down completely before putting them back in the shed.

However, the best way to ensure your safety while gardening is to get someone else to do it for you.

Whether this is another family member or a hired professional, it is difficult to come to any real harm while sitting in a comfortable garden chair with a gin and tonic in one hand and a trowel in the other.

TREBLE: Arsenal's Theo Walcott scores his side's fifth goal and completes his hat-trick in the 6-0 mauling of Blackpool at the Emirates Stadium

Walcott on fire

ARSENE WENGER claims there is more to come from "electric" Theo Walcott after the England forward's hat-trick brought Barclays Premier League newcomers Blackpool back down to earth with a crushing defeat at Arsenal.

The 21-year-old was a controversial omission from Fabio Capello's ill-fated World Cup squad, only to be welcomed back into the England fold following the dismal display in South Africa.

Walcott produced a stunning display as he tore the Seasiders apart from kick-off, sweeping the Gunners into an 11th-minute lead.

Andrey Arshavin made it 2-0 from the penalty spot after defender Ian Evatt had been sent off for a foul on Marouane Chamakh, which looked to have taken place just outside the box. Walcott added a third before the break, with Abou Diaby slotting home number four at the start of the second half, before the England man – whose only international goals came with a famous hat-trick in Croatia during September 2008 – then secured the match ball with another well-taken finish.

Chamakh headed in a sixth goal, but it was Walcott who shone brightest.

"Theo is more electric than he has been," said Wenger. "He mixed well the final ball and the finishing, which is a sign a player is more mature."

"Let's not forget what he does is always at a very high pace, so it is not easy to make the right decision, but today, he did."

"Theo is 21, so now he is at an age where players usually start, you cannot say he is at the peak of his game," he added. "There is a lot to come from him – first, he has to keep his attitude right and also to be injury-free, because that decides careers as well."

Meanwhile, Blackpool manager Ian Holloway lamented the decision of referee Michael Jones to send off Evatt, but could only praise Arsenal.

"If that is how my team plays one day, I will be absolutely delighted, the pace and movement was terrific, it was a joy to watch," Holloway said.

"Walcott was unplayable. I can only stand there and admire that. It was an absolute education, a masterclass – but we have to learn quickly."

"Some of the decisions we made were a bit disjointed after what I thought was a poor decision. We would still have lost the game, but would not have been smarting quite so much pride-wise."

BARCLAYS PREMIER LEAGUE ROUND-UP

CHELSEA won 6-0 for the second successive Saturday, with a superb performance at lacklustre Wigan.

Nicolas Anelka (two), Salomon Kalou (two), Florent Malouda and Yossi Benayoun scored the goals.

Gareth Bale claimed the first double of his senior career as Tottenham won 2-1 at Stoke, with Ricardo Fuller netting the home side's consolation.

Birmingham midfielder Craig Gardner was another to strike twice as his side came back from Steven N'Zonzi's headed goal to beat Blackburn 2-1.

Johan Elmander claimed a second-half brace as Bolton won 3-1 at West Ham. Carlton Cole missed a first-half penalty, before Matthew Upson scored an own goal. Elmander finished the rout either side of Mark Noble's penalty.

Peter Odemwingie's first goal helped promoted West Brom secure a 1-0 win over Sunderland and bounce back from last weekend's mauling at Chelsea.

Everton had to settle for a 1-1 draw at home to Wolves after Sylvan Ebanks-Blake cancelled out Tim Cahill's earlier effort to snatch a point.

Expect Rooney goals - Giggs

TODAY'S ACTION

Fulham v Manchester United, 4pm, Sky Sports 1

RYAN GIGGS has assured Wayne Rooney he is still making a valuable contribution even though he knows Manchester United's star striker is desperate for a goal.

Rooney heads to Fulham today hoping to end a barren run of 13 matches stretching back to the Champions League clash with Bayern Munich in March.

However, Giggs is confident the 24-year-old will soon shine again.

"I accept primarily goalscorers want to score, especially after getting so many last year," said Giggs. "If he carries on playing well and getting chances, it will come sooner rather than later because he is a brilliant player."

ROONEY: Goals to come

Hull sent off as Rovers slip to defeat

ZAMARETTO DIVISION ONE CENTRAL

BARTON ROVERS 1

BARTON slipped to a disappointing home defeat after a lacklustre performance.

Expectations were high after a positive result last Tuesday, but Barton were unable to replicate that result against a clinical North Greenford United, who took advantage of the hosts' lethargic display.

Barton actually began the match on the front foot, and missed a few half-chances in the opening minutes. But against the run of play North Greenford snatched an opening goal on nine minutes, taking the wind out of Barton's sails.

From then on they were sluggish all over the pitch, and the rampant visitors gained a foothold in the match. After surviving a couple of scares, Barton slipped further behind on 32 minutes following a neat passing move from North Greenford's midfield.

Barton re-emerged from the break with more vigour and Russell Preston's header from Peter Duffy's cross gave them hope. But Tommy Hull was given a second yellow card with two minutes left for handball, and the resultant free-kick was excellently curled in to condemn Barton to defeat.

LUTON TOWN 3

CLAUDE GNAKPA'S outstanding first-half performance helped steer Luton to a comfortable win over Fleetwood Town – and a top-of-the-table spot – as the powerful midfielder scored his first goal of the campaign.

Gnakpa has been fighting to get match fit after picking up an injury in the Hatters' pre-season training in Portugal and his energy and work rate will please boss Richard Money who decided to rest the midfielder at half time.

Further goals from Matthew Barnes-Homer and Tom Craddock followed when Fleetwood were reduced to ten men after Paul Linwood saw red for violent conduct.

In a tentative start, Fleetwood started brightly and showed that they weren't afraid to push forward. However, it was Luton who had the first effort on goal. Matthew Barnes-Homer touching it into the path of Andy Drury. But a timely block from Shaun Beeley prevented the powerful strike from troubling Danny Hurst in the Fleetwood net.

On 13 minutes Claude Gnackpa drove through the Fleetwood midfield from the half-way line, switched the ball on to his left and let off a sizzling shot just over the crossbar.

Luton took an early lead a minute later, Gnackpa, again causing problems, pulled back to the waiting Barnes-Homer just outside the six-yard box and the in-form striker calmly side-footed past Hurst.

Luton had found a passing rhythm and enjoyed a long period of possession which led to Gnackpa doubling Luton's advantage after 22 minutes. Freddie Murray lifted the ball towards the edge of the Fleetwood penalty box which Gnackpa, with help from an unfortunate slip from Paul Linwood, latched on to before poking the ball round Hurst and blasting his finish into the roof of the net.

The hosts could have pulled one back straight from the kick-off but Wayne Curtis, who scored for the Cod Army in their win over Mansfield, saw his close-range effort turned round the post by Mark Tyler, in what was the stopper's first real threat to deal with.

Fleetwood were beginning to find their feet and looked dangerous down the right-hand side through John Miles but Fleetwood continually let themselves down with the final ball into the box which, more often than not, lacked the accuracy to pick out Magno Vieira and Curtis in the middle.

The hosts were reduced to ten men on 38 minutes. Gnackpa's late tackle on Simon Grand got tempers to boiling point and an apparent push to the face by Paul Linwood on Danny Crow earned the defender his second yellow card and an early bath.

Three minutes after the break Luton could have made it three. Barnes-Homer squared the ball across the face of the goal but a stretching Jake Howells, on for the superb Gnackpa at half-time, saw his effort bounce to safety after hitting the underside of the crossbar.

On 58 minutes, Barnes-Homer played Drury through on the edge of the penalty area with a neat little back-heel but Hurst got down well to his right to prevent Drury adding to Luton's tally.

Fleetwood finally managed to get a shot on Tyler's goal on 68 minutes. Vieira cut back a cross to Ian Craney on the edge of the box but the midfielder, who has previously won the Conference with Accrington Stanley in their 2005/06 campaign, fired his shot high into the The Memorial Stand.

On 70 minutes, Tyler's clearance went straight to Vieira who, with the Hatters keeper scrambling to get back on his line, scuffed his shot wide of the Luton goal in an attack that sums up Fleetwood's attractive performance.

Four minutes later, Barnes-Homer played in substitute Tom Craddock who turned inside one defender before firing a left-footed shot towards goal which required an outstanding save from Hurst. Then, a minute later, Pavel Besta charged from midfield and played Drury in on the left for the winger to fire a shot across the face of goal which was easily dealt with by Hurst.

Six minutes from time, Kdenek Kroca knocked back Craddock's left-sided cross into the path of Keane but Hurst performed another brilliant save and then from the resulting corner, the stopper tipped over Craddock's looping header to keep Luton's lead at two.

Four minutes later Craddock did extend the Hatters' lead after Drury pounced on some scrappy defending in the Fleetwood box and crossed to Craddock waiting at the back post to nod home.

Money pleased with Conference TV deal

LUTON Town manager Richard Money is looking forward being one of the first Blue Square Bet Premier teams to be broadcast live on television after the Football Conference announced a new deal which will see 30 matches screened per season.

The Hatters' trip to Grimsby Town on September 4 has been selected to be the first match shown on Premier Sports TV and the game against the relegated Mariners will be moved to a 5.15pm kick-off to accommodate the coverage.

"I think it's good news for everybody," said the Town boss. "It gives us another level of profile and we are very pleased to have the first match, so it can only be a benefit to everyone."

In the ground breaking deal, which will be a first in English football between a major football competition and a broadcaster, the Football Conference has signed up to a unique partnership with the channel to screen the matches, including the play-off semi-finals and final, over the next three years.

Fans will be able to pay a monthly subscription fee of £6.99, and the uniqueness of the deal – over and above the normal rights fee paid by the broadcaster to the competition – will see the Conference receive 50 per cent of all subscriptions, once a nominal level of subscribers has been achieved.

In addition, the Conference will also earn 50 per cent from all internet revenue associated with the deal, and allow them to retain advertising rights allied to those adverts shown with their matches.

The first schedule of live matches is yet to be confirmed beyond the first clash against Luton and Grimsby.

The Mariners were demoted from the Football League on the final day of last season and like Town, harbour hopes of bouncing back at their earliest opportunity.

The last time the Hatters travelled to Blundell Park in 2008, striker Tom Craddock scored twice in a 2-2 draw – the second a 90th minute equaliser.

Town boss Richard Money, this week revealed that the Teesside top goalscorer from last season, had been 'tapped up' by a Football League club.

After Luton's 3-0 win over Fleetwood yesterday, in which the striker came off the bench to score the third, Money said that there had been no further developments but that he wanted him to stay.

Oliver's young guns shot down but future looks bright for seasons to come

BY LANCE CHRISTOPHER
sport@LSNmedia.co.uk

IN the end it proved to be beyond the reach of the young Bedfordshire side.

Defeat in the final game at Grantham on Tuesday ended their Minor County Cricket Championship chances and saw Lincolnshire lift the Eastern Division title.

Nevertheless the county can look back with pride on their achievements and, if the side continues to develop, look forward to a few successful seasons to come. To go so close to winning the title, with such a young side, was a remarkable effort. Over the season the average age of the team was only 19. It doesn't necessarily follow that they will be able to keep this side together, because hopefully, some will go on to make it into the first-class game. That is what Minor County cricket is all about.

It is very disappointing then, when some first-class counties, who have Bedfordshire players in their academies, insist that they play age-group cricket for them rather than in the second tier.

It is something the ECB should address. The development of young players should be the prime consideration, not keeping academy coaches in a job by boosting the results of their age-group teams.

Does anyone really believe that it is more beneficial for young cricketers to play for first-class county under 17 or under 19 sides, rather than at Minor County level?

Much of the credit for Bedfordshire's success this season must go to skipper Oliver Clayson, who had a phenomenal season with the bat, scoring 699 runs at an average of 77.66 with three centuries to his name.

Andy Reynoldson hit two tons in a tally of 478 runs and George Thurstance, George Arblaster and Matt Barnes all scored more than 200 runs. Arblaster also had a great season behind the wicket with 16 catches and three stumpings. Leading wicket-taker was Colin Griggs with 23.

Bedfordshire could have no complaints about their defeat by Lincolnshire, the home county getting home by nine wickets before lunch on the third day.

Bedfordshire were bowled out for 230 after being put in and then, after containing Lincolnshire for a time, suffered at the hands of skipper Paul Cook who blasted 127 to help his side to 396-7.

Bedfordshire fared even worse second time round, being skittled for 178, leaving Lincolnshire needing only 16 for victory.
